

Tips to Increase Business Efficiency

The best way to increase business efficiency is to go about it the way expensive consultants, MBAs and PHDs do: breakup the business according to value chain segments and then treat each segment as a value chain transaction (each is a transaction with inputs and outputs).

Then use some measure to determine the value of each segment, for example the amount of working capital each segment uses, the number of jumps required for each segment transaction to complete etc.

See <http://www.value-chain.com/>